

Acknowledgements

The success and credibility of a scholarly journal largely rests with a group of contributors who rarely get acknowledged for their efforts. The task of peer reviewing is just as vital to the very existence of academic publishing as it is unrewarding for those who undertake it. In the short term their contributions have to go unattributed since anonymity is a cornerstone of the peer review process as we understand it. But that does not mean that the referees have to go unacknowledged forever. With the opening of our third annual volume we would like to send a collective thought of gratitude to all the referees who have helped us in 2009 and 2010. This list of 67 names from 12 different countries represents the very backbone of Culture Unbound's academic quality and integrity. With this collective 'thank you' we would also like to encourage more scholars to join the rank of referees, for Culture Unbound as well as for other academic journals.
